The Light of Home

The light of home ! how bright it beams
When evening shadows around us fall,
And from the lattice far it gleams
To love, and rest, and comfort all!
When wearied with the toils of day,
And strife for glory, gold or fame,
How sweet to seek the quiet way
Where loving lips will lisp our name!

When through the dark and stormy night. The wayward wanderer homeward hiss. How cheering is the twinking light. Which through the forest gleams he iss to it is the light of home—he feels. That loving hearts will greet him the And softly through his boson steals. The joy and love that banish caro.

The light at home! How still and The light at home! How still and s
It peeps from yonder cottage does,
The weary laborer to greet
When the rough toils of day are o'er!
Sad is the soul that does not know
The blessings that its beams impart
The cheerfyl hopes and joys that flow,
And lighten up the heaviest heart.

DISAFFECTION ATTHE SOUTH. The Nashville correspondent of the Chicago Tribune writes as follows concerning popular feeling at the

"The people of the cotton States were on the brink of a declaration in favor of a restoration of the Union after the fall of Atlanta; and open mutiny against the Confederate government was only prevented by Hood taking the offensive. On this point I regard my evidence as positive; therefore we can imagine the result after another disappointment has accumulated upon the many that have caused universal depression throughout the South; and the intensity of the reaction will be in proportion to the height of the expectations raised by the magnificent promises of Jeff. Davis and Hood.

The action of the late Alabams Legislature is of an importance so great that it is scarcely possible to fully realize it. It refused to do anything; it evidently saw that the end was near, and that it had better let the matter go by default, than to send more victims to be sacrificed. By the present law, the militia cannot be sent from one county to another; and the Governor urged that it should be repealed, but the Legislature refused to comply with his request by a very decided majority.

'The late reverses to the Confederate cause,' says a Southern journal, 'have given the reconstructionists courage to raise their heads;' and this remark is true. Throughout Alabama and Georgia, particularly, the masses are discontented, and determined no long to bear the burden imposed by the Richmond government. There is no indignity to which citizens are not subject; robbery, both by 'impressment' of officers and others. has become so common that it has become necessary to revise the criminal code of the States, and inflict the death penalty, for offenses which were formerly punished only by imprisonment; and impressment officers are held to the strict letter of the law, or they will be severely dealt with."

Boors, the tragedian, had a broken nose. A lady once remarked to him, "I like your acting, Mr. Booth; but to be frank with you, I can't get over your nose."

"No wonder, madam," replied he; "the bridge is gone!"

TRUBBDAY MORNING, JAN. 5, 1865.

The "Fort Lyon Affair."

The Colorado papers, to say nothing of dubious sheets further off from the scene, appear be considerably exercised over the late battle in which Col. Chivington and the 3d Colorado Volnnteers slaughtered so many of the savages on the Little Sandy. The Denver News lauds the Colonel and the "gallant 3d" on the success which attended their efforts, and without stint bestows its praise. The Black Hawk Journal on the other hand, thinks the "affair" has a dark aspect-intimates that instead of being a battle, it was neither more nor less than a massacre-and loadly demands an investigation.

We are free to confess that at this distance we are unable to found any opinion on the question, for the simple reason that we are not in possession of the facts. The whole matter resolves itself into a question of fact. If the Indians were the hostile savages who have been depredating on the whites along the mail road, and who inaugarated war, their punishment was as deserved as it was signal and overwhelming. On the other hand, if as some allege, the Indiaps attacked were those with whom a treaty had been made, and were living in peace, almost with the reservation at Fort Lyen, the strictures of the Journal have point and substance. But the last named paper has seen proper to couple with that expedition the name of Gen. Connor of this District. Whether the battle of Sand Creek will cover its originators with merited glory or otherwise, it is due to Col. Chivington, at least, that we should say that General Connor had no more to do with the movements of the Colorado troops, on this or any other occasion, than the apochryphal "Man in the Moon." For some time there has been, in Colorado as well as in other parts, a great misapprehension of the late orders of the War Department relative to the protection of the overland mails. Gen. Connor was directed to afford such protection as he could to the mail route as far east as Fort Kearney, "without respect to District lines," but that in no manner interfered with the administration or the movement of troops in other Districts. The Military District of Colorado remained under the command of Col. Chivington, and the troops there could only be moved by him, When General Connor, after arriving in Denver in November last, discovered that it was impracticable to transport his own troops over the mountains for the protection of the road near Fort Kearney, (which is in Gen. Mitchell's District.) they were halted at Bridger, and he returned to his own head-quart even a suggestion to the military authorities of Colorado or Kansas as to the movement of their troops.

We may as well add that the expedition of Col. Chivington, which resulted in the battle of Sand Creek, otherwise known as the "Fort Lyon affair," had not only been planged, but the troops had proceeded as far as Bijon Basin. eighty miles from Denver, several days before Gen. Connor reached that place It was planned, inaugurated, and executed solely and entirely by the commander of the Dis trict, Col. Chivington, with the 3d Colorado Volunteers. All the glory is his, and by that same token, none of the blame, if blame there be, rests upon the shoulders of Gen Connor.

We dislike very much thus to take the wind out of the sails of newspaper barpies when they think they have a good thing, but it is due to Col. Chivington and his brave troops that we should say thus this much.

SPECIAL TO THE BAILT UNION VENETE.]

Albany, January 2nd. The newly elected Governor Fenton. vas inaugurated to-day.

St. Louis, Jan. 2d. Thomas P. Fletcher, the newly elected radical Governor, was inaugurated to-day.

Cairo, Jan. 3d. The steamer Mollie Able, of New Oreans the 26th, has arrived.

A force of about two thousand, including the 2nd Maine cavalry, 1st Florida cavalry, 14th New York cavalry, three regiments of colored infantry and two pieces of artillery under command of Col. Robinson, of the 97th colored infantry, left for a raid into Alabama the 13th ult. to sever the communication by telegraph and rail at Pollard, and to destroy such property and stores as might be found there. Reaching Pollard on the 16th, the place was found to be evacuated. The railroad depot and a train of eight cars mostly filled with grain, the railroad storehouse filled with grain. Government property of commissary stores, and ordnance building were destroyed; also, two thousand stand of arms were captured. The railroad was also destroyed by our troops when the expedition returned.

Washington, Jan. 2d. A private letter from the fleet says refugees from Charleston and other ports in South Carolina, state that all inhabitants who could do so, have removed into the country. Great distress prevails-scarcely any flour and other necessaries can be obtained at any prices.

Sherman's success occasions general alarm. Several blockade runners in Charleston harbor are waiting an opportunity to escape, and many passengers for Nassau have engaged berths. There is little business in Charleston other than that connected with blockade running and war matters.

Boston, Jan. 3d. The Traveller building was nearly burned out this morning. Loss includes the Daily Evening Traveller office.

Fortress Monroe, Dec. 31st.

The stormy weather still prevails with unabated severity. No arrivals from the South or off Wilmington to report. Washington, Jan. 3d.

The report that the Brazillian representative had accepted Secretary Sewsatisfactory, is not true, for the reason that the Charge de Affairs was not authorized to so determine. The letter of the Secretary bas, however, been transmitted to the government of Brazil. and in due time an answer will be fur nished through the proper channel, which it is not doubted will be of a responsive and friendly character. The Brazilian Charge de Affaire accompanied other foreign representatives to pay their respects to the President yesterday, and afterwards called upon the Secretary of State, at his residence.

New York, Jan. 3d. A Hilton Head special of the 28th ult. says: Kilpatrick's corps has just returned from destroying a portion of the Albany and Gulf railroad, near the Altohoma river. Foster's army is still at Broad river landing, covering the Charleston and Savannah railroad. It is now said that Hardee's army passed over that road to Charleston.

We have had many visitors from Savannah and citizens speak well of Sherman's rule. Gen. Morey issued an order dividing Savannah into two military districts and for the protection of public and private property, and is registering persons formerly in the rebel army. He is continuing the arrest of straggling soldiers and the trasportation of persons within the rebel lines who want to go, was burned together with her cargo, at also to supply the destitute persons with > Sherman, in his specieal field orders, states that as Savannah is and will be held as a military post for future military uses, it is preper to lay down certain general principles that all may understand their duties and obligations; he then proceeds to state what may be permitted for the convenience and comfort of the people, in which are embraced all necessary pivileges of a large community. The publication of newspapers is limited to two editors, to be held to strict accountability for libels, mischievous matter, premature news, exaggerated statements, or any comments whatever on the acts of the authorities.

> The Savannah Republican of the 29th contains the proceedings of a public meeting called by the Mayor and a large number of influential citizens, to take into consideration the matter relating fo the present and future welfare of the city. The following resolution was adopted on the 1st:

> Resolved, That we accept the position and surrender the city, and in the language of the President of the United States, seek to have peace by laying down our arms and submitting to the National authority under the Constitution, leaving all questions which remain to be adjusted by civil means of legislation, conference and votes.

Second, That laying aside all differences and burying by-gones we will use our best endeavors to bring back the prosperity and commerce once enjoyed.

Third, We no not put ourselves in the position of a conquered city, asking terms of a conqueror, but claim the immunities and privileges contained in the Proclamation and Message of the President and all legislation in Congress in reference to a people situated as we are.

We publish the following extract from a letter of E. C. Briggs to the "True Latter Day Saints Herald," published in Illinois.

BRO. SHERN :- I write to laform you that I am yet in the land of the living, and with a bright hope in the glorious gospel of our blessed Redeemer. I arrived in the Metropolis of the great Pacific Coast on the 5th instant, in good health and spirits, where I met Elder G. P. Dykes, and other friends, who wel-comed me. and said you are now at home. I left the hateful land of Utah August 15th, and went by the overland stage to Virginia, Nevada, a distance of 600 600 miles, which was accomplished in five days; there I found many warm hearted saints, who welcomed me with open arms of hospitality, and there I had free access to meeting houses, halfs, court houses, etc., in which to address the people who are seekers after truth, much unlike the inhospitality of the authorities of Utah, who boast so much of their tolerance, and liberality, for there, to use their own expression, they said, inot a house shall be opened to receive you or your doctrine, and we do not vant any of your preaching here, and if it was not for the army at Camp Douglas, you would not dare to come here and preach as you do.

The contrast is so apparent that I can not retrain from exhibiting it in this let-ter, and thank God that I am once more in a land of liberty, unrestrained by priestoraft and blashemy, and not among the sacrilege of the accursed land of salt. The wicked hypocrisy of the leaders of the clique in the Rocky Mountains of America, challenges the world for its equal; but thank God, the God of love and mercy, that in that land there are thousands of good, well disposed and honest people, who abhor the works and teachings of their priests; but they are living under intimidations, and are afraid to say ought in opposition to them, at the peril of property. (if they have any) persecution, and life, and that by professed ministers of the gospel. I myself was stoned twice by them, and for no other reason than because preached the gospel of Christ, as the Martyred Joseph Smith did when he was persecuted; but I am greatful to Almighty God for His goodness to me, and that I am permitted to live in this most eventful age of the world's history, and I feel more determined to press on in the blessed cause every day of my life.

WE learn from the Leavenworth papers that Indians made a night attack on a party of twenty-two men, who were travelling with an outfit consisting of one thousand beef cattle and four wagons, while near Fort Zarah. (junction of the Arkansas and Walnut,) on the 25th ult., pouring in a storm of bullets and arrows on them from every quarter. After some twenty minutes hard fighting. the red-skins disappeared, baying found out that the men of the train were well armed and determined to protect their goods and animals to the last. A few Indians were found lying on the ground next morning, insensibly absorbed in that sleep which only Gabriel's trumpet can awaken. Messrs Dunlap, Lovel, Ingersoll and Cole are the names belonging to the train who were wounded. It was owing to the resolutences, steadiness and bravery of the party that they were not all murdered and their stock run off.—Denver News.

They then ask donations of public land to actual settlers similar to the do nation made to the settiers of Oregon by Act of 1850. This request was re-newed in 1859 60-61. The passage of the Homestead Act of Congress of May 20th 1862 and which went into effect January 1st, 1863, satisfies this request whenever the Indian titles are extin-

Desiring the establishment of the Southern boundary of the Territory, together with a development of the resources of the country in that region, they asked for a geodetic survey thereof, under a Federal officer (the late Maj.
Strausbury) so that a knowledge of the country and a good map thereof would be acquired.

Following up these memorials, the writer finds the earnest request of the Legislature for an electric telegraph from the Missouri River to California, and with it, this statement of facts which none will deny: They represented their (then) isolated condition—the arid plains and desert mountains intervening between them and civilization—requiring thirty days. in the firest seasons. for communications to reach them, and then the obstructions arising from storms, floods, and Indians all combined to render their means of intercourse limited and precarious. They recommended the route for the tele graph which is the one now mainly need, thus showing their complete knowledge of the country at that early day, and they asserted to Congress that in their opinion no other movement could be better calculated to preserve inviola-ble our glorious Union." In 1859 they again addressed Congress upon this subject. They have already the Daily Overland Mail and the telegraph. with an energy worthy of note, they are found urging upon the Government the propriety of constructing a military road from the mouth of the Platte on Nebraska River via Salt Lake to California, and with the recommendation terrible proofs were presented to sustain it. Six thousand American citizens had perished on the road within a period of four years on account of exposure and toil from crossing rivers, marshes, deserts and mountains. They asked for a Topographical engineer to take charge of the work, and an appropriation of six hundred thousand dollars to build the road. The large sum, although not enough for the proposed work, was never granted, and private enterprise has in a measure accomplished the object of the memorial.

The right to elect all the Territorial was also asked for during this officers year. While recognizing the custom of appointing them by Federal power as proper and time honored. it was claimed and regarded as an infringment apon their right of self-government-a relic of despotism and opposed to the genius and policy of republican institutions. They claimed that none were better qualified to select rulers than the people who were to be governed. That these people knew their wants better than any stranger could, and that these people desired to place in office men whose interests were identified with them who had proved their devotion and whose deeds of valor and enterprise recommended them to a grateful people. It was also claimed that this right so confered upon any Territory by the Government, would tend to promote the most cordial and amicable feelings, and re-act upon the power that granted it with the most pa-1859 this subject was again renewed to Congress, and the proposition is always advocated by the community. It is probably the only instance on record where a Territory of the United States has made a similar request. It is hardly pro-bable that Congress will ever grant it.

A very extensive News Depot is established in Salt Lake City, where all the general Newspapers and Pictorials. besides a handsome collection of Nov-See advertisement.

THE "Union Varieties" will be on hand to-night with an entire new programme. Tommy Briggs, Billy Sheppard, and Cook will all appear in their several fun making parts. Go early and get a good seat.

WE would gently remind our city subscribers that the beginning of a "New Year" is a very appropriate time to do the "squar thing," as "Porter says." A few greenbacks would not be ungratefully received in our drawer.

THE people hereabouts are having fine sport, sleighing, these days, but "wretched, unfortunate we"-we hav'nt had that good luck yet.

CHARLESTON UNDER SHELLS.—A rebel correspondent of the South Carolina
Advocate thus describes the work of
Union shells falling upon the city of Charleston:

These messengers of death have been passing thick and fast among the inhab-iants of the city, tearing up the streets, cutting gas pipes and plunging us into darkness; thundering against the churches and dwellings, and creating generally a great tumult; but how few of the citizens have been harmed in their person-1. Tel wint hairbreadth escapes bave heen made! I saw, but a few day's since, the interior of a gentleman's residence which a shell had entered. cutting the tester and passing through the pavillion of his bed; it penetrated the opposite wall, and lodged in the ad-joining room. Both himself and his wife were in the house at the time. In another instance a similar missil entered a chamber, and, passing between the slabs and the bedclothes of a crib in which an infant was lying. left the little creature undurt, but lost in the convolutions of its bedding!

Some months ago, while our intrepid fremen were making every exertion to subdue the fast spreading flames in one of the lower wards, the Yankees opened as usual, upon the locality; a shell in its parabolic descent entered an engine which a number of firemen were working, and which was surrounded by a large concourse of others. The mute-friend of our homes was blown to atoms, the men were dashed to the ground; and with the exception of a negro who had just taken the place of a white man, and who lost an arm. resulting afterward in his death, and a very slight wound on one or two others. none was injured.

Passing through the lower wards of the city you would be particularly struck with two things; first, the sad The elegant mansions the familiar thoroughfares once rejoicing in wealth and refinement and the theater of busy life—the well known and fondly cherished churches—some of them ancient landmarks—where large assemblages were wont to bow at holy altars, and spacious halls that once blazed with light and rung with festal songs, are all deserted, sombre and cheerless; and this is enhanced by the forbidding aspect of the vast district of the city which was laid in ashes three years ago, and which remains in unmoested ruins as the monument of Charleston's long and dreary pauss in the grand march of improvement. Here you perceive her humiliation.

THE CHINESE REBELLION.—The fearful rebellion which has raged for twelve years in China. says an Eastern exchange, seems to have been brought to an end by the capture of Nankin. The town had endured a long siege. The priace of Tied Wang the leader of the rebellion, was found burned to the ground, and it is believed that this claimant of divine honors and of the imperial throne lies buried in its ruins. The most im-portant military chief among the revejutionists, Chung Wung, was captured with the city. Upon entering Nankin, it was found that utter desolation prevailed within its walls. The main thoroughfares were lined with charred rungs and the city was found that it was found that it was found to be supported by the control of the city was captured to be city was captured to be control of the city was captured with the city. ins, and the side thoroughfares were covered with a growth of jungle four feet high. Unburied bodies were everywhere scattered about. The number of these corpses is estimated by European witnesses at nearly 10.000. This stupendous insurrection had reduced the once populous and opulent city to a wilderness of empty houses.

AN AFFECTING SCENE. - A CORPES pondent of the Bangor Whig, in a letter dated from the Provost Marshal's office at Houlton, thus describes an affecting scene that N. S. RANSOHOFF & CO. occurred in that office :

We have sent forward about sixty noble sons of Aroostook (for they have some noble specimens of manhood in this region). One of these men is deserving of more than a passing notice. One of NEW STORE the noblest acts of this or any draft occurred in this office yesterday. A young man with a small family and a young and devoted wife, responded to the call of the government, was examined and accepted, and while his papers were being prepared, a younger brother appeared, and learning that his brother was accepted, pressed his way into the examining room, was accepted, and insisted on going as a substitute for his brother. Quite a scene ensued. The drafted man said he would go, and offered his brother $30 per month to stay at home and take care of his family and effects until his return, but the brother would not listen to it, but go he would, and the two brothers stood in tears, each insisting upon carrying his point. The noble boy at length prevailed, and was duly enlisted as his brother's substitute, making the third son of the family now in the United States service-two being in the 1st Maine cavalry, and having already noble record in their country. I shall watch with interest the name of Frederick M. Haines of Fort Fairfield.

- EFFECT OF PAPER CURRENCY ON THE PROFITS OF A LEADING JOURNAL -The New York Tribune, in a "Prospectus" which appears in its issue of 23d Nov. remarks:

The Tribuns has for the last year been published without profit to its proprietors, solely because of the depreciation of our currency below the specie standard, compelling us to buy paper and other materials at a cost considerably above the full amount received from our subscribers. On our weekly edition, the net loss has amounted to many thousands of dollars ; while our large receipts | Where we will always have on hand a from advertising have been wholly absorbed by the extraordinary expenses for correspondence, telegraphing, etc, devolved on us by the war. As we do not suppose our patrons desire that we should work for them at our own cost, and prefer not to be patronized by any who desire it, we have somewhat advanced for the ensuing year the price of our semiweekly and weekly, as we had already done with those of our daily editions. This increase is purely nominal: there never before was a time when the farmers of our country could buy the Tribune for so little of their own produce or labor.

A clergyman at Cambridge preached a sermon which one of his auditors commended. "Yes." said the gentleman to whom it was mentioned, "it was a good sermon, but he stole it."

This was repeated to the preacher. He resented it, and called on the gentleman to retract.

"I am not," replied the aggressor, "very apt to retract my words, but in this instance I will. I said you had stolen the sermon. I find I was wrong, for on returning home and referring to the book whence I thought it was taken, I found it was there."
